013 IPA Programme: Renewed EU support to key reforms in Albania – *Gazeta Shqiptare (Albania), 14 November 2013

The European Commission adopted the 2013 national programme for Albania under the Instrument for Pre-accession Assistance (IPA). The 82 million EUR programme will finance 19 programmes tailored to the specific needs of the country, supporting reforms and investments in key areas such as governance, justice and home affairs, transport, environment, employment and social inclusion, as well as agriculture and rural development. “Albania has shown its commitment to the integration process, which was reflected by the recent Commission's recommendation to grant the country the candidate status”.

EU, Albanian authorities hold high level dialogue on EU candidate status' priorities – *Gazeta Shqip (Albania), 14 November 2013

EU Commissioner for Enlargement and European Neighbourhood Policy Štefan Füle and the Albanian authorities launched a high level dialogue on the key priorities, which is to provide valuable support for key reforms needed to ensure the granting of EU candidate status to the country. The meeting held aimed to review the progress to date as regards reforms in the rule of law and the fight against corruption and organised crime, in particular the actions undertaken by Albania during the past few months as well as Albania's plans in this area. At a joint press conference with Prime Minister Edi Rama, Commissioner Füle said: “It has been a good year for Albania and for its efforts in the EU accession process. It has been a good year in delivering on free and fair elections and on constructive transfer of power. This also allowed us to clearly confirm in the recent Progress report that Albania delivered on the conditionalities related to the candidate status. It allowed us to recommend to the Member States to grant candidate status and I hope that they will take this recommendation - and a lot of additional information from this meeting - very seriously when they will make the important political decision on the candidate status for Albania.” “What is European Commission's reaction to more efforts from Albanian side? More engagement on our side. Albania and its citizens should be given clear sense of the road towards the EU and to see concrete results on this road. That is why we have launched together the High Level Dialogue on Key Priorities, where we talk about five issues which stand between Albania and our recommendation to open accession negotiations,” added Füle, noting that he expected a good start and good discussion, but “it was actually excellent start and excellent discussion with commitment of all those who participated in the meeting”. Finally, he said he “appreciated specifically the detailed information both in writing and verbally on the actions of Albania's government in the area of fight against corruption and organised crime".

Cisl (an Italian labour association) estimates that Italian wages decreased by 1040 Euros in the last five years – Corriere della Sera (IT), 12 November 2013

The losses are particularly sensitive for workers earning between 29 and 50 thousands Euros per year, since their wages decreased on average by 6%. This is due to the increase of the fiscal burden on the medium class, which has not been matched by the adjustment of the wages according to the prices' inflation.

World Bank recommends actions for creating more jobs and making them more accessible – (NOA), Washington, 11 November 2013

Unemployment in Europe and Central Asia (ECA) is high and job creation is weak, despite impressive reform efforts in many countries of the region and a decade of strong economic growth before the 2009 crisis, says a new World Bank report "Back to Work: Growing with Jobs in Europe and Central Asia." "Jobs are key to lifting people out of poverty and ensuring that prosperity is shared by all. Good jobs can also empower people and enhance their voice and participation in society," said Laura Tuck, World Bank Vice President for Europe and Central Asia. "The jobs challenge in countries of Europe and Central Asia is pressing. But it is not insurmountable; and the good news is that many countries in the region are already showing the way by making the necessary reforms. <http://noa.al/en-post/en/377598.html>
